

preliminary test (part 2)

Write one word only in each space.

A conversation in Oxford:

- A: Hello, Barbara. How are you this morning?
- B: Not bad, thanks. How about you?
- A: Fine. I'm always happy on Fridays.
- B: So do I, usually. But I haven't got anything to do this weekend.
- A: What about going to London? There are some good exhibitions on.
- B: I went to London last weekend. I think I'd like go out into the country.
Did you heard the weather forecast?
- A: Last night they said it was going to be wet on Saturday but fine on Sunday.
- B: Can you suggest if it will be nice for me to go?
- A: What about the Cotswolds? They're nice and close.
- B: How would I get there?
- A: You could take a train on the Worcester line. Then get out at somewhere like Charlbury and walk back along the Oxfordshire Way footpath to one of the other little stations.
- B: Do you know how often the trains go?
- A: I'm not knowing not. You'll have to ring British Rail. Or you could ask Amanda. She lives out that way.
- B: That's a good idea. Thanks for your help.

I did this test without help.

Dear Jackie

What I can do best is, in my opinion, to listen and to read because thereby I don't have to invent or formulate something. To my problem is like I just said to make something up, but that is also in other languages.

I started to learn English in the primary school where I had one lesson a week for four years. It was a facultative term.

Then I went to the, I think it's called high school where I had obligatory English two lessons a week. But my teacher was very slow and so after I changed school I only got bad or o.k. marks. So I hope to improve my English that I'll ^{have} again some good marks.

I was once in New York, but it was only for holiday and not to practise English. But I speak with my half-brother's wife English because she's Polish and so she can't speak German already.

I'm going to Oxford because it's part of my school to go there and to speak one time fluently.

I'm also looking forward to hearing from you

Best wishes
